

Student Teacher Showcase at the West Virginia Reading Association 66th Conference

Goal

The showcase presents student teachers with the opportunity to engage in professional networking, as well as to highlight the exemplary work they have completed in their teacher education program. With an average of 400-500 participants, the poster session will take place in the Exhibit Hall. Conference attendees are invited to visit the showcase and interact with the student teachers. The high-volume traffic area will allow for dialogue and interaction among a diverse population, including educators, administration, vendors, and superintendents.

Who

Accepting submissions from undergraduate and graduate level preservice teachers. Student teachers must register for the conference to participate in the showcase. Student teachers must complete the following to indicate showcase participation:

When

Friday, November 18, 2022 10:15am-11:00am (set-up at 10:00am)

Where

The Exhibit Hall in The Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia

Suggested Poster Format

- The showcase will be hosted in a gallery walk setting.
- Student teachers may elect to present their work on a trifold, large poster board, and/or a digital presentation. If participants elect a poster board and/or digital presentation, they will be responsible for bringing their own poster stand and/or digital device. No projectors, screens, or video displays will be available during the showcase. Tables will be set up to display the trifolds and other presentation materials.
- The showcase is an opportunity to highlight the great work that the student teachers have completed and the wonderful educators that they are!

Suggested design components, (include, not limited to):

- Name, institution, major/minor, contact information
- Professional artifacts reflective of innovative literacy and reading instruction and strategies
- Pictures and authentic examples of teacher education experience, both in the collegiate and field placement classroom setting
- Professional dress and presentation design
- Joy! Have fun in the presentation of you as an educator!
